Cal Luther Is Speaker At Rotary

Cal Luther, Head Basketball Coach at Murray State College, was the speaker yesterday for the Murray Rotary Club. He was introduced by Nat Ryan Hughes, who was in charge of the program.

Luther told the Rotarians that the coaching profession is different from many other vocations, since to be a good teacher and coach must have winning teams.

He listed three important attributes which a good coach must possess. He must be good at recruiting, must be a good teacher and finally must be a good coach.

Luther said that recruiting is the heart of the coaching business because without good talent in any athletic contest, a coach cannot win.

The coach must be able to find this talent, and put it together to make a good team. Any school adding two or three top players a year considers it has done well, he continued.

Luther said that recruiting actually is a selling job. The school, its attractions, and benefits, must be sold to the prospect, he said, and the coach must sell himself as well.

The coach has to teach motor skills, Luther told the Rotarians. These skills must be practiced to the degree that they become reflex actions. This takes time, effort and motivation, he said.

Luther gave a brief rundown of the squad this year and said that prospects seemed bright since only one player who saw action last year was lost through graduation. He lauded several players on the squad and indicated that he expected them to perform as well this year as last year or even better.

Stewart Johnson, a 6-5 sophomore, is expected to give the Racers a boost in the high jump department this year.

A visiting Rotarian was Foster Jones from Louisville. E. S. Ferguson had his son Edward as a guest. Guest of Henry McKenzie was Kenneth Goode and Harry Seid was a guest of Vernon Stubblefield Sr.

Home In County Is Destroyed By Fire

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Kerby Jennings located off the New Concord Road was completely destroyed by fire last night about 11 p.m.

According to reports Miss Edna Kerby Jennings, 16-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings, was home alone at the time of the fire.

She was preparing for bed and as she went from the bathroom to the bedroom she noticed the blaze in the south wing of the house and ran toward the telephone, but found the living room completely engulfed in flames. She then ran to the highway and halted a passerby to go to Murray to get help.

Sheriff Woodrow Rickman went to the home, but the house was already in complete flames. The Rescue Squad stood by in case the fire spread to nearby buildings.

Miss Jennings had just talked with her mother about ten minutes before she discovered the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings were planning to eat and then Mrs. Jennings was coming home for the night. They were located at the Triangle Inn and told of the fire.

Three Are Held In Break-in Of A Puryear Firm

Three juveniles are being held in the Calloway County jail on charges of breaking and entering the 641 Club, located just north of Puryear on U.S. Highway 641.

The three are charged with breaking in the back door of the establishment and taking money from a cigarette machine, a juke box and a coin operated shuffle board game, and also sixteen cases of beer.

The incident occurred last night about midnight.

According to Sheriff Ralph Fields of Henry County, Tennessee an unidentified person called him about 1:00 o'clock this morning and reported that they had seen or heard someone in the building.

He went to the scene, but the three were gone by the time he arrived. An automobile owned by one of the three had been backed over a low concrete wall and apparently had gotten stuck. The three had left on foot, he said.

Participating in the search for the three were Sheriff Fields, Deputy Sheriff Alvis Wall, Puryear Marshall Taylor Owens, State Trooper Sergeant Wayne Tubbs, and Tennessee Bureau of Inspection Agent Ansel Duffie.

Deputies Wall and Owens came to Murray to identify the owner of the car but the owner was not at home so they returned to Paris.

Sheriff Fields said that the three juveniles caught a ride at Hazel to return to Murray and Deputy Wall

CLOSE ELECTION GOOD

WE have heard several local Democrats lament over the fact that the election Tuesday was won by such a narrow margin.

They felt that since Mr. Breathitt had won by 60,000 majority in the primary that possibly it should have been closer to 100,000 in the general election.

We feel that the reason for the narrow margin, and this idea is also shared by many persons of both parties, was that emotional issues were injected into the campaign such as race, executive orders, prayer in the schools, etc. Where emotion or prejudice is concerned, clear thinking usually becomes muddled.

To get back to our first point however, we think that a close election is good for the state and the nation. We hope the time never comes again when one party or the other builds up a huge majority.

We don't want a one party system such as is practiced in totalitarian states or in some South American countries.
We believe it is healthy to have offices hotly contested by two opposing parties. If the day comes when it is all one way or the other, regardless of what party it might be, then freedom in this nation will be a thing of the past.

PAY RAISE INCENTIVE

A WORKER seeks promotion by trying to prove he can carry a larger burden or be more efficient than his fellows.
A businessman strives to improve his earnings by increasing sales and lowering expenses. A member of Congress simply votes himself a pay raise.

It is audacious for a man earning $22,500 annually to claim that he is suddenly worth $32,500 a year, in addition to a multitude of fringe benefits. But that's the raise Congress is prepared to give its members in the bill now before the House of Representatives.

Over in the Senate, John Williams (R-Del.) has sponsored an amendment to the proposed boost in governmental salary scales that would stipulate any raises will take effect only after balancing of the Federal budget.

Senator Frank Lausche (D-Ohio), a co-sponsor of that amendment, not only hits the nail on the head, but brings it down on the fingers of greedy congressmen when he says:
"I want to provide a tax cut for the people of our country, but I want to do it on the basis of a rational and sound approach—a reduction rather than an expansion of spending."

Murray State Seeks First Homecoming Win Since 1956

Murray State College will be seeking its first Homecoming win since 1956, its first win over Middle Tennessee since 1952, and its first four-game winning streak since 1961 when The Thoroughbreds play the Blue Raiders Saturday at 1:30 p. m.

The Racers have already done some jinx-busting this year by being the first Murray team in 12 years to win three in a row and by beating Tennessee Tech for the first time in seven years.

A Racer win, however, will require an outstanding effort, as the Raiders are the leading defensive team in the Ohio Valley Conference and the second best in offense. Murray is third in defense and fourth in offense. The Raiders have the leading passer in the Conference in Teddy Morris, the Racers the leading rusher in Tommy Glover.

Both teams have 5-2 records against all opponents. Middle is 3-1 in the OVC, Murray 3-2.

Murray Coach Don Shelton calls Middle an outstanding team which does everything well and says that the Racers will have to play their best game of the season to win.

Common opponents of the two have been Eastern Kentucky, UTMB, Austin Peay, and Morehead. Middle beat Eastern 23-28, UTMB 21-14, Morehead 27-7 and Austin Peay 27-0. Murray beat Eastern 20-0, UTMB 19-8, Austin Peay 14-0, and lost to Morehead 24-10.

Middle is Murray's oldest opponent and the series between the two stands at 15 victories each and 3 ties. Murray, however, has never beaten the Raiders since they joined the OVC.

Murray's 1933 team, the only Racer team to have an undefeated, untied season, will be honored at halftime of the game. This team beat Middle at Homecoming 70-7 thirty years ago.

Quarterback Teddy Morris

as the league's second best pass receiver.

But practice has been enthusiastic in the Commodore camp this week and Vandy coach Jack Green says that while Norton is a fine passer, he is not as strong a running threat as other quarterbacks his charges have faced this season.

"We ought to be able to concentrate more on defending against his throws and not worry too much about his running," says Green.

"However, they have two other fine backs in Rodger Bird and Darrell Cox. Both are dangerous runners.

"We are going to have to work awfully hard and play at our best if we expect to defeat them."

Both the Cats and the Commodores are 0-4 in SEC competition and share the league cellar with Tennessee and Tulane. But Kentucky still has a chance for a break-even season as it currently stands 2-5 over-all with three games left to play.

The Wildcats whipped the Commodores 7-0 last year. In a series dating back to 1896, Vandy has won 23 games to Kentucky's 9. Three ended in ties.

Norton, a quick-throwing sophomore quarterback from Louisville, takes a back seat only to Georgia's sensational Larry Rakestraw in SEC passing and Larryback Cox is ranked Coach Charlie Bradshaw's Cats, braced by the potent Rick Norton-Darrell Cox passing combination, are rated a 10-point favorite. Vandy has won only once in its past 24 outings.

Winless Vandy And UK Will Meet Saturday

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Winless Vanderbilt and the University of Kentucky Wildcats, two hard-luck football teams vying to climb out of the Southeastern Conference cellar, clash before an estimated 20,000 fans at Homecoming Saturday.

Coach Charlie Bradshaw's Cats, braced by the potent Rick Norton-Darrell Cox passing combination, are rated a 10-point favorite. Vandy has won only once in its past 24 outings.

Norton, a quick-throwing sophomore quarterback from Louisville, takes a back seat only to Georgia's sensational Larry Rakestraw in SEC passing and Larryback Cox is ranked

Sports Parade

By JACK CUDDY
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Middle-weight champion Dick Tiger appreciates the international respect given him as a fighter; but he said today he doubts that anyone realizes he is one of the all-time great students of the sport.

Muscular, broad-shouldered Tiger—who arrived this week from his home in Nigeria, Africa for his next title defense—explained: "My watching, watching, watching of other boxers ever since I was a little boy did as much maybe to make me champion as my good punch and good chin. I see particularly the bad moves and the dangerous openings they leave—as well as the good moves. And I continue to improve a little all the time."

Tiger, 34, is scheduled to defend his 160-pound crown against 33-year-old Joey Giardello of Cherry Hill, N. J., at the Atlantic City Convention Hall, Dec. 7.

Has Dick improved enough to predict a victory over Giardello, with whom he broke even in two fights in 1959—before he became champion?

Destiny Parable
Tiger, wearing a brown jacket and brown slacks and chatting in the lobby of his hotel, shook his head and said he never made predictions because of the Nigerian "old folks parable of destiny."

Just as DICK Thetu—as he was named back in Amalibo, Eastern Nigeria—is a combination boxer-puncher, he also is a combination tribesman with circles of tribal dots about his torso and a modern African, educated from the age of five to 16 in an "English-spoken" Nigerian school.

"The old folks' parable," Tiger explained, "is that life is just like dreaming in your sleep about something you want but don't get or do get—depending upon destiny. And I always dreamed, asleep and awake, that I would be a boxing champion—and I was lucky. It was my destiny. And I hope it's my destiny to beat Giardello again."

Top Contender
Giardello, now top contender, lost a 10-round decision to Tiger at Chicago on Sept. 30, 1959; but Joey avenged that defeat by outpointing Tiger in their return fight at Cleveland little more than a month later, Nov. 4.

Since then Tiger became champion by outpointing Gene Fullmer at San Francisco, Oct. 23, 1962. In Tiger's first defense last Feb. 23, he was held to a draw by Fullmer at Las Vegas, Nev. But in his second defense, Aug. 10, Dick stopped Fullmer at the end of the seventh round in Bataan, Nigeria.

Tiger's wife, Abigail, was able to see his impressive Bataan victory over Fullmer, but he said Wednesday she will not be able to come to America for the Giardello fight because she is busy taking care of their four children—three girls and one boy.

"Yes," Tiger concluded, "we own our home in Nigeria and I hope I can make enough money before I retire, when I'm as old as Archie Moore, to buy some good business—if that is my destiny."

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 358

The determined, uncompromising pressure that Charles Francis Adams exerted upon the British government, through all the media of public opinion, gained another victory for the Union the autumn of 1863. A victory against the Confederate navy without a shot being fired. Queen Victoria's ministers were finally moved to subvert the scheme of the Confederacy to secure, through Laird's shipyards at Liverpool, two armored warships capable of inflicting disaster and panic at Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston with raiding bombardments. Purpose of the hulls of Nos. 294 and 295 had been concealed at first; then, when they took the unmistakable shape of naval vessels, and Adams' protests rose, they were represented as having been contracted for by French agents of the pasha of Egypt.

Adams refused to believe this. Upon his receiving word from an observer at Liverpool that one of the ironclads was about to depart, President Lincoln's man in London part, President Lincoln's man in London went to the prime minister to declare, "It would be superfluous of me to point to your lordship that this is war!"

The Emancipation Proclamation had had too electrical effect for the government to disregard British anti-slavery sentiment at the risk of war against the emancipators. The two ironclads were ordered detained. As a face-saver, the government bought the pair and thereby presented the British navy with its two most advanced warships.

GOVERNMENT CHANGE

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP) — Henderson residents approved 1963 a proposal to institute the city manager form of government up for adoption in Tuesday's election. It means a mayor and four commissioners will be elected in 1965 to take office in 1966.

BEAT LIBRARY TAX

TOMPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Monroe County voters defeated a proposed library tax by five votes in Tuesday's election. The tax would have assessed 10 cents on each $100 of assessed property valuation. The vote was 1,299 to 1,294. It means the library will go out of business.

SHERIFF ELECTED

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Republican J. C. Noffsinger is the new Muhlenberg County sheriff. He won a special election Tuesday for the two-year unexpired term of the late Arthur Tooley over two other candidates.

October Was Driest Month In 74 Years

October was the driest month in 74 years of rainfall records for the Tennessee Valley, TVA said today. The region's rainfall average only about 33 of an inch. Some points within the Valley have had rainfall totals about that low in past Octobers, TVA said, but the lowest October average for the whole 41,000-square-mile area had been 24 of an inch back in 1889—about eleven times as much as last month's figure.

TVA said that of the 193 rainfall stations in the Valley from which it receives reports 126 reported no precipitation at all during the month. Streamflows in general are not yet extremely low in the Valley for this time of year, TVA said, probably because of the near-normal rainfall this past summer, which was an unusually cool one. No record lows have been recorded on any of the agency's reporting stream gages throughout the Valley, although some in west Tennessee and the Norris area are at low levels.

Water flowing into the whole TVA reservoir system averaged about 6,000 cubic feet per second in October. Flows from Kentucky Dam, near the river's mouth, averaged about five times that much as TVA continued the annual fall discharge from its storage reservoirs to maintain hydroelectric power production and to draw down the lakes toward their flood season storage levels.

This water discharged from the Tennessee also helped maintain navigation depths downstream for river towns on the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

The discharge is not expected to fall much below that level unless extreme drought conditions return—and rainfall this fall. Normally, streamflow begins to increase again by December.

TVA's reservoirs are not unusually low for this time of year, despite the drought. At the end of September the reservoir system above Chattanooga contained useful water in storage equal to 3.77 inches of water depth over the drainage area—a little above the average for that date in recent years and almost twice what the total has been in some dry years.

At the end of October the useful water in storage equalled 2.49 inches of water depth over the drainage area above Chattanooga, still slightly above the 10-year average for that date.

Come To Supper After The Game

Why not have supper at your house after the next football game? Set a gay table in the family room. Make it a winner's celebration.

The food for the occasion should be well suited and easy on you, the hostess. A casserole-type dish is usually a good bet. To please the men folk, as well as the girls, serve a delectable Ham and Potato Bake. It's luscious with a sauce of canned condensed cream of celery soup mixed with sour cream and bright with chopped parsley and sliced almonds.

A molded salad . . . carrot and cabbage in orange flavored gelatin . . . rates superbly as a perfect accompaniment to the hearty main dish.

No meal is complete without dessert. Just right is pineapple upside down cake served warm and with whipped cream, if desired. Coffee, of course.

Ham and Potato Bake

1 1/2 cups sliced onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed cream of celery soup
1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup chopped parsley
2 teaspoons marjoram, crushed
1 teaspoon rubbed sage
6 cups thinly sliced potatoes
1 slice ham (2 pounds)
1/2 cup toasted sliced almonds

In saucepan, cook onion in butter until tender. Blend in soups, sour cream, parsley, marjoram, and sage. In 2 shallow baking dishes (12x8x2" each), arrange alternate layers of potato, ham, and sauce. Cover; bake at 375° F. for 1 hour. Uncover; bake 15 minutes longer. Garnish with almonds. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

FARM BUREAU

Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation

A story is told of two workmen who ate lunch together every noon. Day after day one of them complained that he always had peanut butter sandwiches in his lunchbox. The other, finally becoming annoyed with the daily complaint, that he suggested his friend ask his wife to prepare something more to his liking. The reply was, "My wife has nothing to do with this. I make my own sandwiches."

How often we, as individuals, when we get together with a group or talking with one another, complain about the inadequacies of leaders who are administering the needs of our country—how often we, as Farm Bureau members, complain about present programs being administered by presently elected leaders. How often have we sat back on the sidelines and voiced no opinion when these policy making decisions were being discussed and made—to later only criticize? In essence, we have, all along, been making our own sandwiches.

We owe it to ourselves and to the generations that follow to openly come active in all political and civic undertakings—to voice an opinion—to vote a choice.

On November 10-13 the Kentucky Farm Bureau will be holding its 44th annual meeting in Louisville—formulating, discussing, and adopting policies that comprise the "fruits of labor" of Farm members from all parts of the state. These Farm Bureau members have stated by their county policy resolutions they want certain things this way or that, and have repeatedly expressed their opinion or opinions in meetings after meeting throughout the year.

A MIXING BOWL can be turned into a festive punch bowl with the help of decorative Christmas gift wrap paper. It is used to cover cardboard that circles bowl with color.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

IF YOU'RE resting easy in the thought that Christmas is two whole months away, remember how Time flies! It literally whizzes by and, before you know what's happened, that most delightful holiday will be upon us with all its happy—but hectic—activities.

Word Of Warning

So this is a word of warning to the wise: before the rush begins, start—and right now, while you have time—to plan decorations that will dress up your house for a Joyous Xmas.

You can buy decorations readymade, of course, but Christmas feels more like Christmas when the trimmings have your personal touch.

You don't have to be an artist, either. You can achieve maximum effects with minimum do-it-yourself talents if you help yourself to the beautiful designs that come on gift-wrapping papers. They capture the color and the spirit of the season and lend bright touches to decorative designs.

Paper work, for example, can pay off prettily in trimming for a Christmas punch bowl table.

Use As Runner
Use a runner of patterned holiday giftwrap paper over a solid color cloth.

Dress up a mixing bowl so it serves punch prettily by circling it with cardboard covered with the same gift-wrap paper. Arrange loops of stick-to-itself ribbon around the base of the bowl.

If you like, ring punch glasses with bands of giftwrap paper, too, so they match.

Use gift paper to cut out a stocking shape that can be trimmed with ornaments and hung on the wall.

Fireplace Mantel

Make a scalloped patterned paper band to dress up the fireplace mantel. Cover a hatbox with gift wrap paper and fill it with fruit, gift-wrapped party favors, evergreens or ornaments.

There's just no limit to the easy-to-do paper projects you can pull off once you get going. They'll all look gaily, too, for gift wrappings this year are in no shabbier than ever.

BLUE CHRISTMAS tree ornaments are taped to a mantel festoon of striped green and blue flocked giftwrap. Blue patterned paper was used for stocking decoration on wall.
